A poster for Cary Judd's acoustic performance. The top half features a black and white portrait of Cary Judd sitting. The text reads "CARY JUDD acoustic performance" with website URLs "www.caryjudd.com" and "myspace.com/caryjudd". The event is on "Wednesday November 8, 11am-1pm" at "RZ's COFFEEHOUSE" and is "free to students, staff, faculty and guests". The bottom half of the poster shows two smaller photos: one of Cary Judd playing an acoustic guitar and another of him playing a guitar and singing into a microphone. At the bottom right, there is a logo for "UNIVERSITY PROGRAMS & SERVICES" and a small graphic of a coffee cup.

Cary Judd in Concert

Cary Judd is his own one-man band. Hailing from the mountains of Wyoming, he has toured across the country and done recordings with bands such as Lifehouse, Hoobastank, and Dishwalla. Come see him perform for FREE September 23rd!

"A couple of years ago I started touring," Judd said. "I left my hometown with $100 in my pocket [to make it on my own] 'cause I realized in like 80 years I'd be dead."

Judd's music was marked by an unusual style, consisting of astral guitar melodies, mixed with loops of bass guitar, soft drum beats and occasionally a harmonica drifting underneath Judd's Emo/Punkish vocals.

Judd's main influences are The Cure, Bob Dylan and Bright Eyes. For more music from Judd visit www.caryjudd.com.
